Corporate Senior Counsel Adeeb Fadil was profiled in Environmental Law Institute Insider, a newsletter of the Environmental Law Institute Leadership Council, “Circling back to Square One.” The article discusses Adeeb’s return to Charlottesville, VA after 27 years at Simpson Thacher’s New York office, which he joined during a time when environmental issues were first attracting significant attention in major corporate transactional practices, particularly in New York. In addition to his work in environmental law, the article also praises Adeeb for his pro bono work, particularly with the Natural Resources Defense Council (NRDC) and human rights environmental issues.
