Peter Gilman Quoted in Law360 on how PE Firms Should Prepare for a Recession

06.18.19

Funds Partner Peter Gilman is quoted in a Law360 article titled “How To Counsel PE Clients Through A Recession.” In the article, Peter discusses how private equity firms can seek to position themselves well throughout market cycles, and the role that fund formation lawyers can play in that process. Peter notes that “our fund formation clients are constantly trying to look around the corner and prepare themselves for the future” – whether that is the development of new products or complementary business lines or reacting to adverse changes in market conditions – and that “part of our job is to prepare them for those eventualities.”
