Mick Tuesley Quoted in The Deal on the U.K.'s New National Security Review System

12.14.20

Partner Mick Tuesley was quoted in a The Deal article titled, “U.K. Flexes National Security Muscle Alongside Cfius.” The article examined the U.K.’s recently introduced national security review regimen, which is modeled after CFIUS and has similar powers to halt, unwind and mitigate international deals. When discussing how this new national security review system would replace the U.K.’s current, relatively narrow one, Mick said, “A couple years ago, there seemed to be a sense in the U.K. that they needed to supplement and augment what they were doing. This is the product of that process.”
