Mick Tuesley Quoted in The Deal on CFIUS Reviews Under Biden

03.05.21

National Security Regulatory Practice Head Mick Tuesley was quoted in an article in The Deal titled, “Biden’s Cfius Veers From Trump on Nuance.” The article described the ways in which CFIUS reviews under the Biden Administration may differ from the previous administration, particularly with regard to remedies versus blocking transactions. Mick noted that the Committee might opt for a more subtle approach to its reviews, saying “They’ll want to have a robust Cfius review process in place, but I think it may be more nuanced. It may be more amenable to mitigation as opposed to outright blocks.”
