Danielle Jackson Featured in Reuters' Daily Docket on Becoming a Real Estate Lawyer

03.08.21

Newly elevated Partner Danielle Jackson was featured in Reuter's Daily Docket discussing her path to becoming a real estate lawyer. After graduating Spelman College, Danielle worked as an analyst focusing on real estate when the financial crisis hit. While working on a number of restructurings, she was exposed to more nuanced legal issues and realized she “liked the typed of problems that the lawyers were solving compared to what the bankers were working on at that time.” The profile also highlighted Danielle’s work for longstanding client Blackstone, including the sponsor’s record-breaking $18.7 billion purchase of an industrial portfolio from GLP.
