

Joe Kaufman and Christian Riess Author Law360 Article on Considerations for Companies When Conducting Common Corporate Activities Remotely

04.28.20

Joe Kaufman and Christian Riess authored an article titled, “Best Practices For Remote Corporate Actions,” which was published by Law360. The article provided key considerations for companies looking at how they can continue to function efficiently when in-person interaction is not possible due to the coronavirus pandemic and the recent widespread transition to remote working. The article focused on three specific areas where public companies are now facing novel questions on how to properly conduct common corporate activities remotely—board actions, SEC filings and contracts.
